“Counsel woven into the fabric of real life is wisdom.”

— Walter Benjamin

The Teaching Tolerance staff would like to welcome you to the capital of Alabama, the offices of the Southern Poverty Law Center and the birthplace of civil rights, Montgomery.

Thank you for taking the journey. Members of the Advisory Board are not simply devoted to social justice; they teach, counsel and care for K-12 students in schools across the nation every day. We hope this meeting will be the beginning of a deep and rewarding collaboration between Teaching Tolerance and its Advisory Board. The advice you give us during this meeting and throughout the year will be invaluable. With your help, Teaching Tolerance will continue to produce materials that meet our mission of reducing prejudice, improving intergroup relations and supporting equitable school experiences for our nation’s children.

As we engage in this important work, let’s keep our students close in mind. They are the ones we serve.

TEACHING TOLERANCE STAFF

MAUREEN COSTELLO

Teaching Tolerance, Director

Maureen leads the Southern Poverty Law Center's Teaching Tolerance project, one of the nation's leading providers of anti-bias education resources. She oversees all aspects of the project, including the award-winning Teaching Tolerance magazine, the development of multimedia teaching kits, professional development resources and special projects. Before joining the SPLC, Maureen oversaw development of the 2010 Census in Schools program for Scholastic Inc. in partnership with the U.S. Census Bureau. For eight years she directed Newsweek's education program, which was dedicated to engaging high school and college students in public issues. She served as academic dean at Notre Dame Academy High School in Staten Island, New York, where she also taught history and economics. As a teacher, she worked with both the Advanced Placement Program and the New York State Regents on assessment-related projects. She is a graduate of the New School University and the New York University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

ADRIENNE VAN DER VALK

Managing Editor

Adrienne has an extensive background in social work, social science research and journalism. She enjoys organizing for social change both in and outside of work, and is particularly interested in equity issues surrounding girls and young women. Adrienne holds master's degrees in political science and journalism.

SARA WICHT

Senior Manager, Teaching and Learning

Sara has 20 years' experience as a classroom teacher, literacy coach, curriculum writer and teacher trainer in the United States and Brazil. She holds a bachelor's degree in English, a secondary education endorsement and master's of education degree in language and literacy.

JARAH BOTELLO

Teaching and Learning Specialist

Before joining Teaching Tolerance, Jarah taught English and drama at Southside High School and Concordia College Alabama, both in Selma, Alabama. With a heart for social justice and equity, Jarah used her artistic talents to co-found Random Acts of Theatre Co., a nonprofit theater company focused on equality and youth mentoring. She also serves as its program director.

MONITA K. BELL

Writer/Associate Editor

Monita taught composition and literature courses at Auburn University and Alabama State University before joining Teaching Tolerance. She has also worked as an online writing tutor. Monita is passionate about helping young people to see their own inherent value as well as the inherent value in others. She is the author of Getting Hair "Fixed": Black Power, Transvaluation, and Hair Politics.

JUNE CARA CHRISTIAN

Teaching and Learning Specialist

June has 13 years' experience as a classroom teacher, anti-bias trainer and qualitative researcher studying the impacts of educational practices and policies on students of color. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees in English, a master's degree in education and a doctorate in educational leadership and policy.

MAYA LINDBERG

Writer/Associate Editor

Maya is a graduate of Macalester College and worked at Brown University's The Choices Program before coming to Teaching Tolerance. She is an award-winning curriculum editor and a dedicated crusader for social justice in multiple areas.

MARGARET SASSER

Fellow

Margaret is a two-time graduate of the University of Alabama, where she obtained a master's degree in American studies in 2014 and a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies in 2012. She joined Teaching Tolerance as an intern and is now integral to the development and maintenance of Perspectives for a Diverse America in her role as the Teaching Tolerance fellow.

SCOTT MCDANIEL

New Media Technical Lead

Scott has been in the computer industry for over 20 years. He has worked with some of the largest companies in the world and has been involved in the education field for over a decade. He is deeply committed to human rights and helping to make the world a better place through the use of technology.

JOANNA WILLIAMS

New Media Associate

Joanna is a 2014 graduate of Western Kentucky University, where she was the spring 2014 editor of the College Heights Herald. She originally joined Teaching Tolerance as an intern and is now the primary force behind TT's social media presence.

STEFFANY MOYER

Program Coordinator

Steffany is the program coordinator at Teaching Tolerance. She has previously worked in Teaching Tolerance as a research fellow. She has also worked as a teacher. Steffany studied English and social science at the University of Montevallo, and education at Auburn University in Montgomery.

CECILE JONES

Administrative Assistant

Cecile joined Teaching Tolerance in August 2014, bringing with her extensive experience in customer service and administration. Before coming to Teaching Tolerance, she worked in Hope Hull, Alabama, at VT Miltope as a product support coordinator and as an administrative assistant at Northside Hospital in Atlanta, Georgia. Here at Teaching Tolerance she provides support to the entire team, helping with any administrative duties, and providing customer service support via phone and email.

RACHEL BUCHAN

Intern

Rachel recently graduated from Birmingham-Southern College with a double major in religion and psychology. She plans to relocate to Turkey to teach English in fall 2015 as a Fulbright scholar.

ADVISORY BOARD MEETING GOALS

The purpose of the Advisory Board is to help Teaching Tolerance stay rooted in the real experiences and diverse perspectives of school communities across the country. Advisors contribute to the mission of Teaching Tolerance by responding to and giving feedback on content, sharing expertise and practice, and helping program staff anticipate important trends and changes in the field. As members of this select group of educators, Advisors grow professionally through networking with Board colleagues, by participating in the development of content and through their role as ambassadors for the Teaching Tolerance mission.

ADVISORY BOARD MEETING GOALS

- ➔ Orient Board members to the mission of the SPLC and the work of Teaching Tolerance.
- ➔ Familiarize Board members with their roles and responsibilities and establish expectations and working procedures.
- ➔ Provide an opportunity for SPLC staff to hear directly from practitioners about how materials are used and what educators need.
- ➔ Foster professional networking and sharing of ideas among participants.

Sonia serves on the state board for the Idaho Education Association.

"This film was amazing!! I showed it to four different classes of 7th grade students in Wisconsin. They were so engaged!! The students had an incredible discussion after. One class didn't have time to finish and kept asking me if we could finish it until we found a day that worked. Amazing!! I have already shared with colleagues in the social studies department and cannot wait to show other Teaching Tolerance films!!"

— Wisconsin Teacher.
